

SEEKS ROYAL BLOOD
IN VAIN, THEN SUES

Expert in Heraldry and Genealogy a Plaintiff.

ANCESTRY TRACED BACK

Mrs. Woolsey Feels Confident She Is of Royal Lineage

When Charles H. Browning Disappears Her She Fails to Settle Bill and Matter of Descent from King Alfred the Great Gets an Alibi in the New York City Court—Her Pedigree Is Fully Given.

New York, Nov. 13.—A suit by Charles H. Browning, an expert in heraldry and genealogy, to recover $500 from Mrs. Thomasine Rigby Woolsey, for tracing her ancestry to King Alfred the Great, was begun in the city court to-day.

Mrs. Woolsey is the wife of Minthorne Woolsey, a banker and broker of Wall street. She wished to become a member of the Order of the Crown, a society founded by Miss Farnsworth, of Detroit, and to be eligible as a member the ancestry of the person applying for admittance must be traced back to royalty.

Browning declared that Mrs. Woolsey told him that she would pay him well if he could trace her ancestry back to royalty.

Mrs. Woolsey believes she is descended from Alfred the Great, who was king of England 1,100 years ago, and also from King Harold. The reason she alleged, for refusing payment of Browning's bill, was that his report could not be verified by the genealogist of the Order of the Crown and was rejected.

Tried to Find Royal Ancestry.
Mr. Browning testified that Mrs. Woolsey gave him the names of thirty-two ancestors for him to trace. They were men who had come to this country as immigrants before the eighteenth century. Taking one after the other, he tried to find something of their antecedents before they came to this country.

Of the four names that he thought might possibly give some trace of a line of kings, Mr. Browning said that the only one—that of Thomas Dudley, who was governor of Massachusetts in 1671.

"I found by accident a lead which made me believe that Gov. Dudley was of royal descent, and I traced Gov. Dudley's wife, Dorothy York, of whom Mrs. Woolsey is a descendant, through generations of pedigree, yomany, and peasantry back to King Alfred the Great."

"Mrs. Woolsey had been given to understand," said the witness, "that she was descended from Alfred the Great, King Harold, and the other Anglo-Saxon royalties, but that was not substantiated."

Mr. Browning testified that he so reported to Mrs. Woolsey, and at her request made a further search for royal descent for her. He said that as a result of a long, tedious and intricate investigation in November or December, 1902, he found that Dorothy York, wife of Gov. Thomas Dudley, was a direct descendant of kings. He said that the name of Dorothy York was unknown to Mrs. Woolsey.

Finds Her Entitled to Honors.
The genealogist further testified that he discovered that Dorothy York was an ancestress of the defendant and that such discovery would establish her claim and furnish to her the desired information that she had royal blood in her veins.

He said that he reported his discovery to Mrs. Woolsey in January, 1903, and sent to her notes verifying the discovery of her royal descent and told her she was, through Dorothy York, entitled to membership in the Order of the Crown. He said that after thus proving to Mrs. Woolsey that the blood of kings was in her veins, he sent her a bill for $500. He said that she refused to pay the amount or any part of it.

Browning testified that a fair and reasonable charge for a genealogist was $5 a day. He said that he spent fully 100 days in his efforts to find the descent of the defendant from a king. He said he was satisfied that he had done so.

There was offered in evidence a paper, on the back of which was written: "Royal Descent of Mrs. Minthorne Woolsey from King Alfred the Great, King Harold, King Charlemagne, King Pharamond."

Biography by Cotton Mather.
Browning said it was not the report that he sent to Mrs. Woolsey showing her royal descent through Dorothy York. Browning testified that Mrs. Woolsey wrote to him that she was descended from the emigrant from England, and into whose antecedents he made a search. He said that she told him some thirty-five of her ancestors came to the country before 1700.

He testified that after Gov. Dudley's death Rev. Cotton Mather wrote a biography of the late Gov. Dudley. He said that Mr. Mather tried to get information from Gov. Dudley's son concerning the governor's reputed descent, and that the son refused to furnish to the Rev. Cotton Mather any information on the subject.

Browning testified at great length concerning his efforts to trace the ancestry of the ancestors of Mrs. Woolsey. He said that he had to eliminate twenty-eight out of the bunch. He said that he had early discovered that he could not trace them to kings.

"Take, for instance, the emigrant Thomas Jewell. He came to Massachusetts colony in 1630. I couldn't even find out what ship he came on to this country. I couldn't find a king for him. He said he soon discovered that the Dudley line promised most on the chance of royal blood, but after months of effort to find a king for Dudley, he discovered the royal blood in Dorothy York, one of the wives of Gov. Dudley, who flourished in the days when witches were burned in old Salem town."

The Woolseys came here from Alabama. Mr. Woolsey is a banker and broker, at 32 Nassau street.

Promotion for T. F. Schmucker.
El Paso, Texas, Nov. 13.—T. F. Schmucker, inspector in charge of the immigration work in Texas, with headquarters here, was today transferred to Denver, as chief of the new naturalization bureau, in Denver, with jurisdiction covering the territory between St. Louis and San Francisco. Schmucker is a former Washington newspaper man.

Be Careful Now About Buying Lumber.
Prices of all kinds of lumber much lower. Frank Libbey & Co., 6th st. and N. Y. ave.

WEATHER FORECAST.

For the District of Columbia, Maryland, and Virginia—Fair to-day and to-morrow; light northwesterly winds.

HERALD NEWS SUMMARY

TELEGRAPHIC.
1—Britons Friendly Toward Kaiser.
2—Woman Miser Dies Amid Luxury.
3—Six Killed by a Train.
4—Banker Wash Trial Opens.
5—Harriman Evidence Wanted.
6—News of Maryland and Virginia.
7—Baptists Want Closer Union.
8—Labor Urges Big Peace Fund.

LOCAL.

1—Dr. Chancellor in Board Row.
2—Eleven Jurymen in Bradley Case.
3—Carroll Gibbons at University.
4—Y. M. C. A. Convention Plans.
5—Planet Mercury Crosses the Sun.
6—Citizens Object to Passenger Station.

MAYOR TOM CONTENT

Johnson Too Busy to Dabble in National Politics.

TRACTION TROUBLES ON HAND

Victor in Cleveland Battle Will Be Needed to Settle Municipal Questions, and He Is Not Seeking the Presidential Nomination—Declines Invitations to Speak at Banquets.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 13.—Tom L. Johnson to-day put himself out of the running for the Democratic Presidential nomination, to which organizations and Democrats in various parts of the country had named him.

Mayor Johnson, whose fourth election to the mayoralty, this time in the face of the opposition of Theodore E. Burton, urged him to make him even more of a national figure than his three administrations, also made public his declination of invitations to speak at the Bryan banquet in Washington and at the Kansas City Commercial Club banquet.

Kansas City has been urging him to accept, and only to-day James J. Hill, of Northern Pacific fame, publicly declared in Minneapolis that, should Mayor Johnson consent to attend, Kansas City would not be graced by the presence of James J. Hill on that occasion.

The announcement was put forth by Bert Gongwer, private secretary to the mayor, just after Mayor Johnson had boarded a train for New York City.

No Politics in Trip.

Politics is held to have nothing to do with the flying trip to the East. "Mayor Johnson authorizes me to say that under no circumstances will he be a candidate for the Presidency," announced Mr. Gongwer. "He wants it to be known that he considers Cleveland the sphere of his duty at this time. He has given himself to bringing about three-cent traction fares in this city, and will consider nothing else but that issue."

"If the traction troubles are ended in a victory for three-cent fares before May there may be a difference," commented Thomas Coughlin, city auditor and a Democratic leader, when told that his chief would refuse to dabble in national politics.

FEAR ROW AT INAUGURATION.

Gov. Frantz Refuses to Ride with Gov-elect Haskell.

Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 13.—When asked to-day if he would ride in the inaugural parade next Saturday with Gov-elect Haskell, Gov. Frank Frantz said: "Of course I will not. How could I and preserve my self-respect?"

Statements made by Haskell in a political address at Shawnee, Okla., reflected on Frantz's personal character, and if the two men should meet face to face, a personal encounter would not be surprising. One of Frantz's friends remarked to-day:

"If they want him (Haskell) inaugurated in one place, they would better keep him away from here."

The statement yesterday that Haskell had refused to ride in the inaugural parade was the last straw with the retiring governor. The inaugural committee is trying to get friends of Haskell and Frantz to patch up, at least, a temporary peace compact.

ARMY MANEUVERS IN JAPAN.

Emperor of Japan and Military Attaches Will Witness Operations.

Tokyo, Nov. 13.—The Emperor left to-day to attend the army maneuvers, which will be on an unusually large scale, 41,000 troops of all branches of the service participating, with pontoons and the commissary corps. They will be employed as in actual war operations.

The maneuvers will be directed through the balloon and electric light corps. The line will extend for thirty-five miles along the Kuro River, near Nikko, a noted resort. Gen. Prince Fushima and Gen. Viscount Kanamura will command the respective forces.

Among the military attaches who will witness the maneuvers are Gen. John J. Pershing, of the United States Army.

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

GAIN OF 282 3-4 COLUMNS IN ADVERTISING IN FIVE WEEKS

The following comparative statements give the amount of advertising carried by this newspaper during the first five weeks of its first year and the same period of its second year. A gain of 282 3-4 COLUMNS—over 56 columns a week, or 8 columns a day—shows the increasingly high estimate put upon The Washington Herald as an advertising medium:

	LINES.	COLUMNS.
First week.....	33,282	67,964
Second week.....	43,501	88,004
Third week.....	39,945	60,080
Fourth week.....	44,246	61,292
Fifth week.....	47,181	65,436
Total.....	228,075	311,446

Jameson Exposition Special.
Leaving Washington 12:30 p. m. week days, via E. & P. and C. & O. Railways, will be withdrawn after Saturday, November 16.

Largest Morning Circulation.
Flooring (very good), $2.00 Per 100 Ft. Two months ago the price was $3.00. Frank Libbey & Co., 6th st. and N. Y. ave.

ELEVEN MEN ARE SEATED IN THE BOX

Rapid Progress in Trial of Mrs. Bradley.

PANEL IS EXHAUSTED

Extra 100 Talesmen Now Being Drawn Upon.

Of the Sixty-one Men Put Through the Test, Twenty-two Are Excused for Cause—Questions and Answers in Course of Examination of Talesmen Prove of More than Usual Interest—Prisoner Pale and Haggard.

Annie M. Bradley's trial on a charge of murder, first degree, in the shooting of Senator Brown last December, was begun in earnest yesterday. Promptly at 10 o'clock, when court convened, the selection of a jury began, and when court had adjourned, there were eleven men who had qualified in the box.

However, the government has remaining nine peremptory challenges, and the defense three, so that the complexion of the jury may yet be materially changed. The regular panel of twenty-six was exhausted a little before recess was taken, and Clerk Hawken then called upon the extra panel of 110 talesmen, specially ordered by Justice Stafford on Monday.

Sixty-one men were examined in all. Of these, eleven were accepted, twenty-two were excused for cause, eleven were peremptorily challenged by the government, and seventeen by the defense. There are now remaining thirty-nine talesmen from which the jury may be completed.

Eleven Men in the Box.

With one exception, the eleven men who have been temporarily accepted, are married, the exception being Smith Adam, a young colored man, an undertaker. The eleven men occupying seats in the box are:

JAMES L. FEENEY, publisher, forty-eight years old. Mr. Feeny said he was a native of New York and had lived in this city a number of years.

WILLIAM E. REISS, bookkeeper, fifty years old, who has lived in Washington practically all his life.

SMITH ADAM, colored, undertaker. He is twenty-eight years old.

DANIEL A. NEWMAN, grocer, and native of Prince George County, Md.

ALEXANDER M. COLE, business man.

JOSEPH C. F. HARTLEY, tea and coffee merchant, who is about thirty-five years old.

JULIUS VIEDT, a grocer, fifty-three years old.

JOHN SWEENEY, painter, forty-seven years old, and a native of the District.

H. CLAY JONES, sixty-two years old, fertilizer dealer, who said he came from the Valley of Virginia.

JULIUS A. PRIGG, bookkeeper, a native of Maryland.

JAMES L. WHITESIDE, builder.

Every seat in the courtroom was taken at 10 o'clock, when a slim little figure dressed in black walked up the steps leading from below, and noiselessly moved to where her counsel, Judge Powers, George P. Hoover, and Robert W. Wells, were seated. She looked neither to the left nor the right. Her face was pale and haggard, her eyes sunken, and she presented a pathetic figure as she took her seat. All eyes in the room were riveted on her. Justice Stafford then entered the room, and Court Clerk Maurice Joyce announced that court was open.

Prisoner Pale and Haggard.

Although pale and wearing a look of almost extreme exhaustion on her face, Mrs. Bradley was more at ease than when she appeared in court Monday. During the entire day she spoke to her counsel not more than three times, and these briefly. Each time her remarks were with reference to a juror whose examination had been completed, and once when she leaned forward and spoke to the talesmen under consideration. According to lawyers, she made fewer suggestions and took less interest in the jury than any one on trial for a capital offense in Washington in a long time.

The proceedings opened by District Attorney Baker announcing that, to save time, the government would make a statement of the offense for which Mrs. Bradley was on trial in order to prevent repetition to each jurymen. Assistant District Attorney Turner then stated briefly that Mrs. Bradley was indicted for murder, first degree; that on December 8, 1906, she shot Arthur M. Brown, of Salt Lake, inflicting a wound that caused Brown's death on December 12. If found guilty, Mr. Turner said, the penalty was death by hanging.

Mr. Feeny was the first talesman called. After answering the usual questions as to whether he had conscientious scruples against capital punishment, even if the defendant was a woman, to which he answered he had not, Mr. Baker asked him:

"Do you believe in the right of any?"

Continued on Page 2, Column 2.

BRYAN WARMLY GREETED.

Nebraska Flads Crowded Houses in Wisconsin Tour.

Milwaukee, Nov. 13.—The tour through Wisconsin of William J. Bryan is proving a veritable march of triumph. Mr. Bryan made two addresses this evening, one a political speech at a banquet where 400 guests, Republican and Democrats sat down, and a lecture at the theater to the capacity of the house. There was much enthusiasm at the banquet.

At Rubicon, Joseph Kaser, an old-time Dodge county Democrat, boarded the train and greeted Mr. Bryan. Mr. Kaser evidently expects he will have a chance to vote for Mr. Bryan again as Democratic presidential candidate in 1908, as he said upon greeting Mr. Bryan: "Make it good this time."

Mr. Bryan was met at Beaver Dam by a delegation of citizens of Beaver Dam and Dodge county, and a procession was formed in which bands from Juneau, Hustisford, Oak Grove, and Beaver Dam participated, and marched through the principal streets to the Fair Grounds, where Mr. Bryan spoke to a crowd that packed the grandstand.

SAYS CHINAMAN DRUGGED HER

Sabbath School Teacher Leaves Husband—Arrested in Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 13.—A victim of the enraging drug habit—a habit of which to cure Chinamen she turned missionary—is the sad plight of Mrs. W. L. Reese, thirty years old, a rich and pretty settlement worker of Altoona, Pa., who is under arrest in Pittsburgh. She was arrested while walking arm and arm on a prominent street with an Americanized Chinaman.

Mrs. Reese to-day told Captain of Detectives Edwin T. McGough that her Chinese companion, Al Sing Dean, from New York, drugged her and took her to Pittsburgh, and also that he is back of a proposed raid upon Pittsburgh by the notorious Hip Sing Tong, a Chinese High-binder association.

Mrs. Reese said she first met Dean when he volunteered to act as interpreter for her Chinese Sunday school, in the First Lutheran Church, Altoona. She charges that Dean induced her to eat a candy-like crystal yesterday, and that everything he then asked her to do seemed the right thing, whereupon he induced her to board a train and abducted her to Pittsburgh.

Her husband, said to be a member of a large bootmaking establishment in Altoona, where the family had a palatial home, is on his way to Pittsburgh.

SIX KILLED BY FLYING TRAIN

Bodies, Hurlled Through Air, Injure Others Standing Near.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 13.—Hurrying to cross the tracks of the Northwestern Railroad, at Milwaukee avenue, in South Milwaukee to-night, five men and one boy, ten years old, were struck by a passenger train from Milwaukee, and instantly killed. Their mangled bodies, flying through the air, struck others nearby, inflicting serious injuries. The five men were employees of the Bucyrus Company, on their way to work. Three others were injured.

Workmen Were Crossing Tracks in Milwaukee When Fatal Accident Occurred.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 13.—Hurrying to cross the tracks of the Northwestern Railroad, at Milwaukee avenue, in South Milwaukee to-night, five men and one boy, ten years old, were struck by a passenger train from Milwaukee, and instantly killed. Their mangled bodies, flying through the air, struck others nearby, inflicting serious injuries. The five men were employees of the Bucyrus Company, on their way to work. Three others were injured.

LUNCHEON IN GUILDHALL.

The Kaiser and the Kaiserin came by train to Windsor this morning to attend the luncheon at the Guildhall, given by the lord mayor and the corporation.

The streets from Paddington station were elaborately decorated with flags, Venetian masks and festoons of flowers, and with banners bearing the inscription: "Welcome." Since the coronation of King Edward they have seldom been displayed so festive an appearance.

The occasion and the sunshine brought out great crowds, which thickly lined the streets. The route was closely guarded by troops and police. The houseposts and windows were alive with sightseers. When the Kaiser arrived at Guildhall the corporation presented an address of welcome.

The Kaiser, in replying, expressed his thanks for the splendid reception that had been given him. He said that among the decorations he had seen the inscription, "Blood is thicker than water."

"May this ever," he said, "be so as between Great Britain and Germany."

Former Visit Recalled.

In responding to the lord mayor's toast at the luncheon, the Kaiser, after expressing his pleasure the occasion had given him, recalled his first visit to the Guildhall, which was in 1891. He said that then his aim was, above all, the maintenance of peace.

"History, I venture to hope," he continued, "will do me the justice to say that I have pursued this aim unwaveringly ever since. The main prop and base for the peace of the world is the maintenance of good relations between our two countries, and I shall strengthen them as far as lies in my power. The wishes of the German nation coincide with mine."

"The future, then, shows a bright prospect."

Continued on Page 2, Column 4.

FORAKER TO ENTER THE RACE

Expected to Declare Himself a Candidate Before the Holidays.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 13.—That Senator Joseph Benson Foraker, who is now fighting the President's ouster of negro regular soldiers from the army, is to announce his candidacy for the Republican Presidential nomination on the heels of the report of the Brownsville investigating committee in Congress, is asserted here to-day by lieutenants of the senior Ohio Senator.

Despite the policy he has announced, that of waiting for a demand, Senator Foraker is declared to be convinced it is politically expedient for him to launch himself on the sea of Presidential politics before the Ohio Congressional districts begin naming notional convention delegates.

This announcement will come in the holidays, his lieutenants say. These same men of the Senator's incidentally assert that the Presidential boom of Secretary of War Taft, seemingly irresistible in its spread through the State only a few months ago, is meeting with obstacles now, which they insist, will wreck it.

"Taft's name will not be heard in the convention," declared a man near to the Ohio organization to-day. Because the organization is regarded as for Taft, this man refused to permit the use of his name.

A report from Washington to-day that a Taft agent had failed to draw from President Roosevelt a declaration that Secretary Taft was his favorite candidate, spread smiles among the men who insist Senator Foraker's warfare on Taft is not at an end.

Persian Rugs at Auction.

A very large and valuable collection of Oriental Rugs and Carpets (comprising the Unashan sale) is now being sold at the Sloan Galleries, 1407 G. st., to-day at 11 a. m. and 3 p. m., concluding to-morrow at same hours. This is the largest and most valuable collection ever offered in Washington, and as every piece is fully guaranteed, purchasers are perfectly safe in buying at this sale.

Stations Discontinued.

On Sunday, November 17, when the Pennsylvania Railroad occupies the New Union Station at Washington, the stations at Navy Yard, Benning, and Deanwood, as well as the station at Sixth and B streets, Washington, will be discontinued. Changes will be made also in the time of a few local trains between Baltimore and Washington, for which new time tables should be consulted.

WOMAN MISER'S BODY FOUND
SURROUNDED BY LUXURIES

New York, Nov. 13.—Having died of starvation, though possessing ample means, Mrs. Caroline Barry, eighty-six years old, reputed to be a miser, was found to-day on the floor of her home, 471 Greene avenue, Brooklyn, where she lived like a hermit.

Not a scrap of food was found in the house. The cupboard was bare, not even a crust of bread being left, while the woman's body showed that she had not eaten for days.

Discovery of the death followed a report to the police, made by Mrs. Isabelle Randall, of 127 Fort Greene place. Mrs. Randall, who was the only person with whom Mrs. Barry was known to be on friendly terms, told the police that she had called several times at the Greene avenue house within the past five days, but had been unable to gain admittance.

Detectives were sent to the house, and getting no response to their ringing of the bell, burst in the door. They found the old woman's body on the floor in the dining room.

On a bare deal table were a hundred or more deeds, documents, and papers, said to represent property of immense value. It was evident that Mrs. Barry had been gloating over her treasures, when she fell unconscious, through lack of nourishment. Coroner's Physician Wuest declared death due to starvation.

The condition of the house astonished those who entered. Scores of costly oil paintings, part of the valuable collection left by her husband, who made a great fortune before his death, a score of years ago, stood in rows on the floor. The windows were curtainless, and the coal bin was bare. The woman even slept on a bare mattress. There were no carpets on the floor.

In her earlier years Mrs. Barry was one of the beauties of Brooklyn. From her husband she inherited large wealth, but was robbed of $100,000 by a lawyer.

BRITISH LIKE KAISER

Officials Gratified at London's Reception.

EXPRESSIONS OF FRIENDSHIP

Presence of Royal Visitors Will Materially Improve Relations Between English and German Nations—Great Crowds Give Joyous Welcome—Socialist Attitude.

London, Nov. 14.—There is a chorus of gratification among officials and the newspapers at London's reception of the Kaiser, and his maesty's happy speech. Prime Minister Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, in a speech at Bristol, rejoiced at the popular expressions of friendship and sympathy with the Kaiser and Kaiserin, hailing them as an indication of the cementing of peace.

A semi-official pronouncement by the foreign office declares the conviction that the Kaiser's visit will materially improve the relations between the two nations. The editorials in the newspapers, which have often been the Kaiser's most captious critics, admit the truth of his claim that he has pursued a policy of peace.

Inquiries at Windsor castle show that the visit there of Dr. Sir Felix Semon, the throat specialist, was really to the Kaiser's physicians, and although he was formally presented to the Kaiser, he was not consulted professionally. It seems to be a fact that his Majesty's health has markedly improved since he left the cold, raw air of Berlin. He is enjoying the mild English November, and spends hours in the woods at Windsor shooting pheasants.

Luncheon in Guildhall.

The Kaiser and the Kaiserin came by train to Windsor this morning to attend the luncheon at the Guildhall, given by the lord mayor and the corporation.

The streets from Paddington station were elaborately decorated with flags, Venetian masks and festoons of flowers, and with banners bearing the inscription: "Welcome." Since the coronation of King Edward they have seldom been displayed so festive an appearance.

The occasion and the sunshine brought out great crowds, which thickly lined the streets. The route was closely guarded by troops and police. The houseposts and windows were alive with sightseers. When the Kaiser arrived at Guildhall the corporation presented an address of welcome.

The Kaiser, in replying, expressed his thanks for the splendid reception that had been given him. He said that among the decorations he had seen the inscription, "Blood is thicker than water."

"May this ever," he said, "be so as between Great Britain and Germany."

Former Visit Recalled.

In responding to the lord mayor's toast at the luncheon, the Kaiser, after expressing his pleasure the occasion had given him, recalled his first visit to the Guildhall, which was in 1891. He said that then his aim was, above all, the maintenance of peace.

"History, I venture to hope," he continued, "will do me the justice to say that I have pursued this aim unwaveringly ever since. The main prop and base for the peace of the world is the maintenance of good relations between our two countries, and I shall strengthen them as far as lies in my power. The wishes of the German nation coincide with mine."

"The future, then, shows a bright prospect."

Continued on Page 2, Column 4.

ROOSEVELT SAYS HULL

President Will Be Forced to Accept Nomination and Be Elected.

Des Moines, Iowa, Nov. 13.—Congressman J. T. Hull, chairman of the House Committee on Military Affairs, said to-day, upon returning from Washington, where he had a conference with the President:

"Roosevelt will be nominated, forced to accept the nomination, and elected President for four years more. Bryan will be the nominee of the Democrats and the country will see the hottest campaign history. With Roosevelt out of the race, Speaker Cannon stands as good a chance for the nomination as any one."

BEGIN YOUR CHRISTMAS SHOPPING NOW

Christmas is only six weeks off. The time to begin your shopping for that happy anniversary is now—right now. Who has not been caught in the jam of Christmas buyers? Who has not said in such an ordeal, "Next year I shall buy earlier?" Every year the press gives excellent advice on this subject. Usually it is given late—too late—but nevertheless it is good advice. The Washington Herald, taking time by the forelock, is giving it now. There are scores of reasons why buyers will profit by it. To-day the stores look their prettiest. Christmas goods are bright and fresh and clean. The wise buyer has choice of them—first choice. He has the time to choose carefully. If you cannot begin to-day, begin to-morrow, or next day, or next week, but do not put your shopping off until the Christmas season sets in. Do not be caught in the Christmas jam again.

A word further: Watch the advertising columns of The Washington Herald day by day and you will do your shopping intelligently and profitably.

Boynjian Sale

Of Oriental Rugs and Carpets continues at the Washington Art Gallery, 1409 H. st. n.w., to-day at 11 a. m. and 3 p. m. This superb collection includes many of the choicest productions of the Eastern art looms, and every rug is guaranteed perfect.

No. 1 Cypress Shingles, $5.50 Per 1,000. Everybody else asks $7 per 1,000. Frank Libbey & Co., 6th st. and N. Y. ave.

You Can Increase Your Income

By depositing your surplus money where it will draw interest. Banking dept. of Union Trust Co., 1414 F. st., says interest on all accounts. Start an account.

$100—Frederick, Keedysville (Antietam), Hagerstown, and Return.

Leave Washington, New Union Station, Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, 8:30 a. m. Sunday, November 17. Splendid opportunity to spend a Sunday in country.